GOODLY ATTENDANCE OUT TO HEAR BUSINESS OF STUDENTS' SOCIETY DISCUSSED AT ANNUAL MEETING

R. L. Hamilton and Other Newly Elected Officers Installed — Reports Received — Society Expects to Show Deficit — Union is Weak Point in Budget — Appreciation Shown R.V.C. Support by Decision to Present Co-ed Basketball Trophy

The annual meeting of the Students' Society was opened at 10.30 yesterday morning with Jack Copeland in the chair. The number of students present was a considerable improvement over the attendance at Student Society meetings during the last few years.

The business brought up was largely routine work, the outstanding item of new business being the decision that the Students' Society should present a Girls' Basketball Trophy for intercollegiate competition.

The minutes of the meeting held in February were read and adopted. "Jimmy" Lalanne then read the estimated revenue and expenditure of the various University organizations under control of the Students' Council. This report is entirely an estimate, but gives a very fair forecast of the annual statement issued in the fall. Briefly summarised, the expenditure in excess of receipts for athletics has been reduced by $2,000 this year, and all but four hundred dollars of the excess expenditure is covered by the universal fee for athletics. The gross deficit of the Students' Council is $4,888.87, of which the universal fee covers all but $1,918.87. It is expected that this net deficit will be reduced to one thousand dollars when the final statement for the year is prepared, based on exact statements from the various clubs. The year opened with a surplus of over six thousand dollars, accumulated largely during the war, and this will cover the thousand dollar deficit. Due to lack of patronage the Union has been the weak point in the budget this year. Over one thousand dollars less has been spent there on candy and tobacco than the year previous.

The question was raised whether the sixteen hundred dollars expended on training table was absolutely necessary. Hamilton and Ambridge assured the meeting that it was, and pointed out that McGill provides only one meal a day to members of the major teams who play under unusual conditions, while both Varsity and Queens provide three meals daily for their teams.

New business was then considered. Hamilton outlined clearly the present status of intercollegiate competition amongst the co-eds. The R.V.C. basketball and hockey teams are financed by the R.V.C. Athletic Association entirely. The girls have supported the University teams this year in a very creditable and very remarkable manner, and it is felt that a pleasing way of showing the appreciation of the student body for the girls' enthusiasm would be the presentation of a trophy for the girls intercollegiate basketball series. The motion to this effect was carried unanimously. It is understood that Varsity is presenting a trophy for hockey.

Jack Copeland introduced the new president of the Students' Council, R. L. Hamilton, who took the chair. He outlined concisely the plans of the Council to hold more frequent meetings of the Students' Society next year in order that the student body may be more intimately connected with the affairs of the University as administered by the Council. A brief mention was made of the improved financial report on the Athletic Association. Every man on the executive had done his part, as was evidenced by the realistic totals of the fines imposed by the Intercollegiate Union — McGill, $5; Varsity, $60; and Queens, $300. The constitution of the Association and the various clubs is being completely revised. Over 50 per cent. of the students engaged in competitive athletics this year, due largely to the various interclass and interfaculty series. In all these series not a single complaint has been registered with the Athletic Association. The "Daily" has co-operated to a great extent by giving these series publicity. The girls should be thanked for the splendid support they had

ANNUAL MEETING OF "LIT" TODAY

New Executive Will be Elected.

There will be a general meeting of the Literary and Debating Society in the lounge room of the Union at 5.15 this afternoon. A report of the year's work will be made by the outgoing executive, and a new executive elected.

The Faculties of Law and Science have already elected their representatives on the executive for the coming year, and Arts and Medicine will do likewise at their next Undergrad. meeting. These men should prove very useful to stimulate interest in debating.

The programme for the coming year will also be discussed at some length. This will include the usual inter-faculty and intercollegiate debates, and the Mock Parliament. A new departure, however, will be the competition for a cup presented by Mrs. R. W. Reford, and awarded to the best public speaker in the College. This contest took place annually before the war, but has not been held since that time.

The cup is to be called the Talbot Papineau Memorial Cup, in memory of one who fell early in the war, and whose work both at college and after leaving gave promise of a most brilliant future. Talbot Papineau graduated from Arts in 1903, and spent three years at Oxford — a McGill Rhodes scholar. He graduated in Law in 1909, and practised until the outbreak of the war, when he was among the first to enlist. It was he who was awarded the cup on the occasion of its inauguration at the University.

It is hoped that there will be a representative gathering on hand to settle the final business of the Lit for this year.

A $20,000 temple of basketball is being built at the University of Southern California. A novel system of artificial lighting, which will eliminate shadows on the floor, has been planned. Underneath the floor there will be a covering of felt padding, an inch in thickness, to insure an easy foundation.

After a student of the University of Denver has been absent from class a certain number of times, he can return only after he has paid a fine of $2 and has taken a special examination. No excuses are allowed under this regulation.

Prohibition officers were guests at the Junior prom held recently at the University of Wisconsin. As the prom was an open event, and the university authorities did not desire to risk the reputation of the school, the officers were invited.

Sorry to see you are plucked, old boy. Never mind, I heard the Glee Club cheer into effect next autumn.

SUPPER PLANNED FOR "DAILY" MEN

Will Follow Annual Meeting on Wednesday Next.

Immediately following the annual meeting of the McGill Daily staff on Wednesday next, March 22, there will be a supper served in the lounge room of the Union at which all active members of the staff are to be present. The decision to hold a staff dinner, while not an entirely new idea, is one that has not been put into force for the last two years, and it is felt that such a function will serve the double purpose of enabling those working on the paper to become better acquainted with one another and of being a form of appreciation for their efforts on the Daily during the past session.

At the annual spring meeting announcement regarding promotions, at the same time certain suggestions in connection with the conduct of the Daily next year will be considered and it is expected that definite plans will be drafted with reference to putting them into effect next autumn.

ARTS UNDERGRAD. DINNER TONIGHT

Dean Laing, Dr. Leacock and Prof. du Roure, Amongst Speakers.

All is set for the Arts Undergrad. dinner, which will be held at the Ritz Grill to-night. A large crowd is expected, and aside from the mere traditional aspect of the function, an unusually brilliant toast list makes it all the more attractive.

Dean Laing, the new head of the Faculty, will be heard for the first time by the Undergrad. Society. The Dean has created an exceptionally favourable impression both in the class room and on the few other occasions when students have been privileged to hear him speak. Those who have not yet heard him should take this opportunity of doing so.

Dr. Stephen Leacock, with his unlimited supply of rich humour, will respond to the toast to "The Ladies," a subject which always offers adequate opportunities for after dinner speakers; how much more to a speaker like Dr. Leacock.

Prof. Rene du Roure is also on the toast list. Speaking in his native tongue, Prof. du Roure may always be relied upon to give his audience a rare treat with his brilliant powers of oratory. This speech will add considerable interest to the evening by virtue of its being delivered in French.

The students whom the executive have chosen to speak at the dinner are numbered amongst the best at college. Clive Mathewson, President of the Society, will be toast master for the evening.

Eighteen years ago, the management of the University of Nebraska Senior prom announced that "stags" would be charged double because it was unfair for the many stags to monopolize the time of the ladies.

Ten scholarships in the study of the Chemistry of rubber have been established by the Goodyear and Firestone Tire and Rubber Companies at the Municipal University of Akron. They will be awarded to graduates of institutions who have fulfilled special requirements in chemistry. The fellowships are worth $50 a month, besides all the fees at the University. The holders must devote 12 hours a week as laboratory assistants, and give the rubber companies first chance at their services after graduation.

The "fever of gambling" is decentralizing college athletics to such an extent that their educational value is soon being lost, a former Chicago pastor declared to Wisconsin students in an address at Madison. He said that students of an Eastern college had bet $200,000 on a single football game.

CO-EDS AND COLLEGE LIFE.

The decision which was reached at the Annual Meeting of the Students' Society yesterday to present a trophy to the Intercollegiate Co-Eds Basketball League is one which meets with approval on all parts of the Campus.

During the past athletic season, the support accorded the various teams by the ladies of the R.V.C. has been very marked. The enthusiasm displayed during the Rugby season, when hundreds of red-tanned rooters cheered themselves hoarse encouraging the fighting gridiron representatives of McGill; and then the repetition of this when the Hockey schedule commenced, has changed the opinion of many of the cynics who are fond of declaring that college spirit may only be expected to come from the male members of the student body.

The good start made last year, and greatly enhanced this year augurs well for the part that the R.V.C. students may be expected to play in McGill college life of the future. At other colleges the members of the opposite sex have a definite place in Campus affairs, and give their earnest support to all college endeavours. The R.V.C. will undoubtedly continue to make their relationship to college activities more vital.

The presentation of the trophy by the student body is meant not merely as a token of appreciation, but as a means of encouraging Intercollegiate contests between the women students of McGill and Toronto University.

It is understood, also, that the student body of the latter university has decided to present a similar trophy for the Co-Eds Intercollegiate Hockey League. With two trophies to be competed for next year by the women students, Intercollegiate Co-Ed sport may be expected to come quickly to the fore in Canada.

TWO PAPERS READ BEFORE HISTORIANS

Canadian and Medieval Universities from Topics of Interest.

F. H. WALTER AND
H. COUSENS.

Open Meeting Will Close
Season's Activities.

Canadian and Medieval Universities formed the basis of two topics of papers presented before the Historical Club last evening at the last and perhaps the best meeting of the club for the current season, held in Strathcona Hall. F. H. Walter, of Arts '23, and H. Cousens, of the graduating year in the same faculty, read papers which carefully and adequately covered the two subjects.

Walter, who delivered his address first, gave an extremely interesting account of the early colleges and universities in Canada, dating back to the days before the British Conquest.

At random, one might be inclined to imagine that there are but a few academic institutions in the Dominion. There are at the present day a great number of sites of high education which have eminent histories.

A bird's-eye view of the "Canadian University" will show that it has in nearly every case an ecclesiastical connection: although in a great many instances this has been outlived.

The early days of McGill, the colleges at Toronto and Laval were the principal examples which Walter, the president, considered closely.

The Medieval University, Cousens said, has handed down many customs which the modern university retains. The traditional habit of initiating freshmen (Yellow Bills) is one of the oldest practices. Speaking of the various phases of college life both in England, Scotland and the principal universities of the Continent, he related several characteristics both in the academic pursuits and also in the routine of living.

McGill students in Arts have but a four years' course: the average medieval B.A. degree was obtained after seven years of grinding. This period was spent not only in an Arts course but generally included the majority of the present day high school education.

A very spirited discussion followed the presentation of the papers.

The open meeting of the club will be held at the University Club on March 29, when Dean Laing will be the speaker of the evening. This meeting will be the closing meeting of this session, which has been in many ways a very successful one from the value which attendants have derived.

ONTARIO CLUB TO HOLD FINE SMOKER

To be a Highly Concentrated Entertainment.

On Tuesday next, the Ontario Club will hold their last meeting of the session, which will be in the form of a smoker.

Due to the proximity of the exams, the smoker will only be a short one, and will give any student plenty of time for study after it is over.

A very fine programme is being arranged, and every number will be concise and highly entertaining. Smokes and eats, there will be plenty, and everything will serve as a fitting climax for the activities of this one year old club.

It was found impractical to hold a dance this season, but it is expected that this smoker will in some way make up for it.

McGILL C.O.T.C. CLASSIFICATION
FIRING RESERVE OFFICERS' CUP.

Craig Street Rifle Range has been secured for the afternoon of Saturday, the 18th, and for succeeding Saturday afternoons. All who have not fired their musketry classification should parade at Q. M. Stores on Saturday, at 2.15 p.m., for issue of rifle, proceeding afterwards to Craig St. Scores made at the Classification Firing count towards the Reserve Officers' Cup, and accompanying prizes for six next best shots.

INTERCOLLEGIATE SHOOT.

The McGill team will parade on Saturday, as ordered by Lt. W. H. Bagg, Musketry Officer. He expects them at the High School on Saturday, 18th, at 2.30 p.m. The shooting will continue until 5 p.m.

McGILL C.O.T.C. ANNUAL INSPECTION.

The annual inspection by the Inspector General of Canadian Militia, Lt. General Sir Henry Burstall, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., Brig.-Gen. C. J. Armstrong, C.B., C.M.G., will take place at the High School, on Tuesday, 21st of March. Every member of the McGill C.O.T.C. must be on parade at 7.30 p.m. prompt. Dress, drill order, with rifle and bayonet. Exemption from this parade can only be granted in cases where special application is made to the Orderly Room, and where a medical certificate is produced. After the parade there will be a supper and smoking concert.

What's the matter with old McGill?
She's all right; she's got a Glee Club.

The Editor,
McGill Daily.

Dear Sir.—During the past few months we have heard a great deal about the forthcoming trip of the Oxford lacrosse team to the United States, and possibly Canada, to engage in a series of games with the leading American colleges. In this connection, there has been a good deal of adverse criticism levelled at McGill by the local papers and outside newspapers as well, for McGill's failure to be included in the Oxford schedule. It must be said, however, that this criticism was in many ways just, as it seems almost incredible that one of the foremost universities in Canada should not have a lacrosse team worthy of its name, more especially, as lacrosse is Canada's national summer pastime.

It seems now, according to Saturday's edition of the Montreal Star, that Oxford is to play McGill, after all, as well as Toronto 'Varsity, which was previously on its schedule. The dates of the games as announced in the news item from Syracuse are: Toronto on April 19th, and McGill on May 1st.

This news is indeed gratifying to all true sportsmen of Montreal, as well as McGill for to have been left out would have been a disgrace. But the surprising part of the news is to know that it comes from Syracuse, and yet no word has been heard locally about the coming game with Oxford. Can this be a mistake? The McGill Athletic Association can answer that.

If the news be true, then no time can be lost in preparing a lacrosse team which would worthily uphold the name of McGill. In a large university such as ours, there should be enough men turning out for the lacrosse team as to ensure a team which should provide stiff opposition to Oxford or any American Collegiate team. McGill, doubtless, has many lacrosse players of excellence, and as for a good coach, there have already been many offers to coach the team, by men who understand the game thoroughly. Thanking you for this space, I am, truly yours,
M. H. T.

Horseshoe pitching, once a popular sport at the University of Pennsylvania, is to be revived. Nearly fifty students have signified their intention of competing for a varsity pitching team. Practice grounds have been laid out in the dormitory quadrangle.

In an editorial, The Pennsylvanian, the student daily, said:

"Back in the days of Ben Franklin Pennsylvania students found great amusement and keen rivalry in a game of horseshoes. It is up to the present generation to revive these old traditions."

Freshette—What's making that chap smile so much?

Sophette—Oh, he's got two tickets for the Glee Club concert.

Freshette—Say, will you introduce me to him?

Sophette—Too late, he's taking me.

PEPYS AT MCGILL

Wednesday, March 15th.—Up at a later hour than is my wont, and with a feeling of general well-being at not being constrained to betake me to the wearisome discourses in the Arts Building this day, and after a little time to the Great Meeting of the Students' Guild, there to yawn and bask for a long hour or more, and striving to listen to the words of the great orators and speechifiers amongst us, which is in truth a mighty hard thing, in that the most of them are wont to let fall their words into that place where their beards should be, or else so completely mumble them about that there is no true hearing of them. And the only thing that I could discern amidst all this eloquence was that the Guild doth intend to bestow a silver bumper upon the women students, for which they shall strive in some of their wonted frolics, and whether that will serve to make them a whit more amiable or not I know not. So to bed very slumberous from the weather.

WHO'S WHO AND THE STUDENT.

The fallacy that a man who attains good marks in his studies is inevitably doomed to be a failure when he runs up against the practical competition of the cold business world that has long been given credence by some undergraduates. A Phi Beta is given up for lost, by studying he is neglecting his real education. What that real education is, none of the cynics can ever say definitely. But they are none the less positive that it is not to be obtained by any serious attention to the college curriculum.

These assertions have always been challenged by educators. Finally, however, a study of the facts of the case has been made by one fitted for the task—Dr. Lauritz Vold, Professor of Law at the University of North Dakota—and he has revealed the absurdity of the contention, and has shown with direct proof that a man's chances for success in life are in direct proportion to the thoroughness of his preparation in school and college.

Taking membership in "Who's Who" as one measure of success in life, Dr. Vold has made a tabulation of the Harvard University men rated in that volume during the past 50 years and correlated that data with their record while in college. He finds that of the men who led their classes, the valedictorians, 73 per cent had places in Who's Who. Of these graduating Summa Cum Laude there were 43 per cent; of the first 10 in each class, 41 per cent; of those graduating Magna Cum Laude, 20 per cent; Cum Laude, 17 per cent. The average of all Harvard graduates over a half century was 15 per cent, and of the men who attained no scholastic distinction in college only 10 per cent were found. Here is one group of facts typical of the situation.

Figures speak for themselves. They show the indisputable connection between high marks in college and success in later life. They are but one of a set of statistics gathered by Dr. Vold, all of which clearly prove the same contention—that the men who appreciate the value of the opportunity offered them in college and who take full advantage of it are the men who attain success after graduation.

We hold no brief for the "grind" the man who considers scholastic achievement the only thing to be sought in college. Severely intellectual and logical processes the "grind" specialties, while highly useful in later life, by no means cover the whole field of possible achievement. Failure to recognize that limitation is the "grind's" big mistake. The contention that the "grind" is too impractical to succeed is true only so far as it is taken to mean that he will not achieve as much success as he would if he should mix his grinding with some of the ordinary human qualities.

It is worth while to attain good marks in college. The leaders in college activities are usually the men who, in spite of their exacting round of extra-curriculum activities, still find time to accomplish their main purpose—the obtaining of an education. And it will also be found that these men are able to accomplish as much as they do because they have recognized the value of scholastic preparation, and have given it its deserved place in their daily routine.

There is evidence that appreciation of curriculum accomplishment is coming to take rank over the sophisticated attitude. If one thing appeals to the practical minded college man it is figures. Percentages of the Tuck School brand show the relation between the undergraduate effort and later performance. The point is plain.

MACCABEANS HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

Attractive Toast-list Arranged for Coming Dinner.

Mr. Herbert B. Ehrmann, a graduate of Harvard University, and an ex-president and one of the founders of the Harvard Menorah Society, will be amongst the speakers at the Annual Dinner of the Maccabean Circle, which is to take place this Sunday night at the Continental Dining Hall.

In addition to a very attractive menu, a splendid list of toasts will form part of the enjoyment of the evening. Otto Klineberg, M.A., Med. '24, President of the Circle, will act as toast-master for the occasion. The toast to the Alma Mater, which will be proposed by the Vice-President, G. Franklin, Dent, '22, will be responded to by Dr. Hermann Walter, head of the Department of Modern Languages.

Amongst those on the list of speakers for the evening are S. Mirsky, H. Batshaw, B. Benjamin, L. Sperber, N. M. Vineberg, B. Cohen, Miss D. Klineberg, and Mr. Michael Garber, a past member of the Circle, and a graduate of the Law Faculty. The programme will be further augmented by a piano solo by Miss Minnie Ratner, and a recitation by Jack Pressner.

The Annual Dinner is one of the traditions of the Society, and should not be missed. Close to twenty-five of the co-ed members are expected to be present, and this should enhance even more the success of the evening. All members who are desirous of attending are asked to get in touch with any member of the executive of the Circle before Friday.

COMMERCIAL SOC. ELECT OFFICERS

Annual Boosters' Meeting Was Well Attended.

The Commercial Society held its annual Boosters' Meeting last night, at which a thorough discussion was conducted relative to matters appertaining to the commerce course. Many students took part in the discussion.

In recognition of the good work accomplished by the Commerce society team, in winning the inter-faculty championship, it was decided to give the players and the manager a banquet. The treasurer read his financial report, which showed that the financial position of the Society is in a very flourishing condition. There is a considerable surplus to give the Society a good start for next year's activities.

As a result of elections the following officers were elected for the coming year:

President—Bert Tremaine.
Vice-President—Wilfred Munn.
Secretary—W. B. Brewer.
Treasurer—Spence Thomas.

The meeting wound up with a half-hour devoted to refreshments and music.

EMINENT MAN WILL BE HERE NEXT WEEK

Dr. Aston, of Trinity College, Will Lecture to Students.

Dr. F. W. Aston, F.R.S., Fellow of Trinity College Cambridge, is paying a visit to McGill University, and at 5 o'clock on Thursday and Friday, Mar. 23 and 24, he will give lectures on the Rutherford Atom and on his own remarkable work on the discovery of isotopes.

It has been found that an element like chlorine consists really of two elements, one with an atomic weight of 35 and the other of an atomic weight of 37. The chemical and physical properties of these two substances are almost identical and they occupy the same position in the periodic table, also their spectroscopic properties are the same. Dr. Aston has come to America to lecture to the Franklin Institute at Philadelphia, and an invitation has been extended to him to give two lectures to the Professors and students of McGill University. His visit gives a good opportunity for McGill men to meet a man of note who has made fundamental discoveries in an interesting field.

It has been suggested that his preliminary lecture should be of a non-technical character, fitted for those not specially acquainted with the subject. While the second lecture will be addressed more particularly to the members of the Physical and Chemical Societies. Visitors will be welcome, however, to both lectures.

Madam, will you walk and talk with me?
No, Boy.

Madam, I've two tickets for the Glee Club Concert.

Oh, boy, I loved you all the time, can't you see?

First Prof.—Well, how were your examinations?

Second Prof.—A complete success. Everybody flunked. —Dirge.

SURVEYING BY PLANE IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

The operations of the Geodetic Survey of Canada during the past summer, in connection with the selection of stations for a primary scheme of triangulation through the mountains of British Columbia, have met with unprecedented success, owing to the introduction of air craft into this class of work.

The cost in time and energy expended in the past on primary reconnaissance work through very mountainous country has been slow. An example that may be cited was the running of the boundary line separating Alaska from the Yukon. This boundary survey took seven years to complete, the field seasons being short. The going in and coming out of the country by the survey parties was also a large expense. If it had been possible to make use of the aeroplane at that time there is no doubt a large saving would have been effected.

To extract the desired information much labour must be expended; and the problem of obtaining figures and the investigation of the intervisibility of their lines of sight "is not on the board" until a number of points controlling a view of the country through which the survey is to run, have been secured.

Through the mountains of British Columbia in some places (as an example, in the valley of the Chilliwack) this is a herculean task, involving a tedious grind through forest areas heavily covered with undergrowth growing up through a network of fallen timber, and in ascent of anywhere from three to six thousand feet. The information gleaned even after this is very often imperfect. As long, however, as the conditions as to the strength of figures thus made possible by a limited selection do not fall below what is deemed necessary in primary triangulation work, the engineer, it can be readily understood, does not hanker after a repetition of the performance.

With the introduction of air craft this has all been changed. A minute examination of the country is now made possible by a series of reconnaissance flights, until the observer assures himself that he has the best system that the country through which he is making the survey will permit.

BAD OPENING PERIOD SETS MCGILL BACK

Intermediate "A" Basketball Team Unable to Tie Score

FOUL SHOTS COUNT.

Alerts Win City Championship by Fair Margin.

Last night the Intermediate "A" basketball team lost to Alerts by a score of 19-15 in the deciding game of the city championship, played in the M.A.A.A. gymnasium. For three-quarters of the game Alerts outplayed McGill in every department, particularly on foul shots, of which McGill lost half. In the last ten minutes the McGill men outplayed their opponents and scored well, but were unable to overcome the big lead Alerts had gotten in the first half.

The game opened at nine-thirty with every part of the Peel street gymnasium crowded with spectators, the majority apparently Point St. Charles sympathizers, by the noise they made. Amaron started off with a rush from centre, which materialized into a good concerted attack, but without result. Alerts got two points on foul shots. From then till half time the game was a succession of foul shots one after the other, the teams being given approximately the same number. The difference lay in the fact that Hollingsworth scored seven out of nine for Alerts; while Scharie missed five out of six and James three, for McGill. McGill made no field baskets from the rebounds, due to the very close checking of the defence men. Alerts were getting more opportunities of field goals but were missing them as regularly as McGill. The Red and White passes were being intercepted with discouraging regularity by fleet Blue and White players, who had an uncanny knack of retaining the ball once they secured it. Summarized—McGill was being outplayed by a more speedy team, though two lone instances of beautiful combination were shown toward the end of the period.

Half time score, 11-3.

Second period opened with a slight improvement in the McGill men. Hilton was on for Blumenstein, Brown for Scharie. Alerts used no cripes at all. Their men were still walking off with what were intended to be McGill passes, due frequently to weak passing and poor receiving. However, the Red and White picked up somewhat as the period progressed, and held the Alerts. Amaron is shooting fouls with some success, while Hollingsworth is missing more, though still shooting well. With ten minutes to go McGill really starts and tries to overcome an eight-point lead. At last the team is playing a real game to win, and is showing a definite superiority to Alerts. They are getting more foul shots than their opponents and Amaron puts in six in succession. Schwartzman is playing a great game on defence, while James is going better on the forward line. The Alerts men are checking hard and playing fast. Lawton and A. Spurr starring, so that McGill is by no means running away from them. Alerts are three points ahead with six minutes to go. The game remains even till each team scores a foul shot, Alerts get a second, and score a field basket. McGill scores two fouls, and misses several field shots. Final score, 19-15 for Alerts.

On last night's play the Alerts deserved the victory, as they played more consistent basketball for the whole period of play. The McGill team was slow in the first half, and never seemed, except in the last ten minutes, to show the same speed, form and clever combination which the members have displayed so often this winter. The team did acquit itself in the last ten minutes, and wholeheartedly tried to even the score. Unfortunately the Alerts were strong enough to prevent this partially. Each team made four field baskets counting for eight points; the total number of foul shots given each team was practically even.

The line-up follows:
McGill (15) Alerts (19)
Forwards: James ..... Lawton
Scharie ..... A. Spurr
Centre: Amaron ..... Edwards
Defence: Blumenstein ..... Hollingsworth

BROWSING AMONG MCGILL'S TROPHIES

McGill boxers have borne their presence of a large cup reposing amongst the silverware in the Union Lounge Room, and inscribed with: "5th Royal Highlanders versus McGill, Boxing, February 19th, 1914," shows. This cup was offered as a prize by the officers to the winner of the boxing tournament between the 5th Royal Highlanders' men and McGill boxers.

The tournament consisted of seven bouts, one of which was a three-round exhibition by the instructors of the two opposing clubs. Much more interest was evinced in amateur boxing at that time in Montreal than there is at present.

"Dad" Lamb acted as referee for the occasion. This adds all the more glory to the victory, for Dr. Lamb is too good a sportsman to forget his position as a McGill man even in the heat of excitement.

McGill came out of the fray with four decisions to their credit. Two of these were acquired by the knock-out route.

The first bout must have been a sort of a useless affair. Surely it is common knowledge that anyone with a name like O'Leary would win any scrap started. However, Small, the McGill man's opponent, required three rounds to find out that he was being beaten off his feet. This was in the 135 lb. class, and the first of the two knockouts.

The second bout, in the 135 lb. class, was a snappy display of speed and skill. It proved to be the most interesting bout of the evening. Atkinson, of McGill, won on points from Bailey.

"Monty" Montgomery, although best known to present day students for his rugby ability, was equally as good a boxer as a rugby player, though "Monty" had an intense desire to see his opponents' faces swell up and change colour in those days. The after-effects were usually similar to those of an angry swarm of bees. After severely testing the ropes with his adversary, Johnston, and including the customary facial decorations, he sent him via the K.O. route.

In the fourth contest, N. Forbes, who had been Intercollegiate champion in the 125 lb. class for two years previous, easily disposed of Rowe. Forbes, later in the season, although winning from Hagey, of Queens, was defeated by McClinton, of Varsity.

In the following bout it required an extra round to decide the winner on points. The contestants were S. Forbes, of McGill, and Race. The Highlander came through in the fourth round and eclipsed his opponent.

The heavyweight bout between Ross and Marshall was a disappointment to the spectators. Neither man seemed anxious to "mix things up." Ross, the McGill boxer, finally lost on points.

Individual cups were awarded to the different members of the teams, and the cup now standing in the case amongst McGill's trophies was presented to the University.

This boxing team was the surprise of the McGill athletic teams for the year. Little chance to win this contest was conceded them. They won it, and then two weeks later carried away the Intercollegiate boxing honours.

CORONATION OF KING COOK ELABORATE

Scintillating Parade Held up Traffic of City.

PRESENTATION MADE.

Usual Splendor Featured in Carrying Out the Ceremony.

Amid the cheering of some three hundred medical students, clad in white dissecting coats, King Cook III, mounted his emblazoned chariot drawn by six stalwart white horses bearing the emblem of His Majesty King Cook, and Medicine '22, and left the Union last night at 7.30 in a cloud of regal splendor.

The parade proceeded along Sherbrooke as far as Peel St., down Peel and along St. Catherine. Here the well known University songs were rendered and the parade became so large that traffic was held up for some little time. From St. Catherine, King Cook III, in his majestic glory, was borne up University St. to the New Medical Building.

Here he descended amid the pomp and glory of his kingdom, and proceeded to his throne in the Assembly Hall of the above building.

The knights of the White Coats, His Majesty's servants, here presented themselves and were entertained for a few minutes to the melodious tunes of the King Cook III. symphony orchestra. Next one of His Majesty's heralds of the Ekeleton Order, came forth and related the romantic story of the origin and wondrous reigns of the noble King Cooks.

A bugle sounded, and the Royal King Cook salute was given; the Knights of the White Coats bowed low and amidst cheers King Cook III. in all his glory, appeared before his followers. The King then thanked his noble servants for their loyalty to him in the past year, and said that he hoped not more than 80 per cent met their death in the Royal Battle of early May.

After a heated discussion of the Faculty of Failing Staff, the Coronation of the Sovereign took place, in which he was presented with an Oriental vessel, exotically decorated and filled with shining gold.

ALL SET FOR GLEE CLUB'S BIG SHOW

Concert to be Held Next Tuesday Night.

Tickets are being sold at a great rate for the coming concert. Whilst the general sale amongst the students is not so far what has been hoped, yet the outside sale has far exceeded the expectations of those in charge of the sale. Many prominent people about the city who are interested in such musical affairs have made up their minds to attend, and as a result, a large number of tickets have been disposed of in this direction.

The Club is practising very hard now for the programme until they are almost perfect. Only one or two minor points still remain to be attended to and the Club will easily be able to finish these before the concert on Tuesday next.

The Orchestra, too, has been devoting its time to perfecting the numbers which have to be rendered at the concert, and its work leaves very little to be done. The members have responded in a very noble manner, and their efforts to grapple with and understand the various pieces have inspired a theme of praise from the conductor, Mr. Key.

Of course it is understood that at this time of the session the students are preparing for the coming examinations, and so the sale of tickets to them would naturally be delayed. But students have a happy knack of turning up at the last minute, and there is no doubt but that they will be present at the concert in large numbers. Public opinion around the college was greatly in favor of the inception of the Glee Club and in their hearts the students are very proud of having such an organization. Quite a lot of talent has been discovered during the session, some of it in unlikely places, and the work so far of the club has done much

MCGILL MAY HAVE A LACROSSE TEAM

Meeting of All Those Interested, in Union Tomorrow.

In an effort to put a team in the field to meet the combined Oxford-Cambridge lacrosse team here this spring, a meeting of all students interested in that sport will be held in the Union tomorrow at 5.15.

Syracuse University is sponsoring the fixtures with American colleges, and has succeeded in arranging games with most of the big colleges. Toronto Varsity will meet the English team also.

Interest in this sport, which is considered the national sport of Canada, should surely be revived, and when it is considered that American colleges, and even English colleges can put out strong teams, a movement in the Canadian colleges to revive the sport should not be out of place.

An old lacrosse enthusiast, in the person of Mr. Louson, of the M. A. A. A., has offered his services to groom a McGill team, and it is hoped that the Red and White may be able to meet the English players some time around May 1st.

to show that at McGill there are chances of making a really good musical association, as there are at any of the other colleges that now possess such clubs.

A more detailed list of the program be on the watch for it, and see if the will appear next week in the Daily, so selections are not up to the standard of those given by other clubs. In the meantime, make sure of your ticket, and not run the risk of being disappointed later on when you make up your mind. The prices are well within the reach of all, 55 cents, including tax, for students, and 85 cents for all outside the university.

Don't forget, then, next Tuesday night, in the R.V.C.

THREE FELLOWSHIPS IN SOCIAL RESEARCH

Three fellowships in social economic research are offered by the Women's Educational and Industrial Union of Boston. These fellowships provide $500 stipend, and expenses of travelling or clerical work necessary for the investigation, which will probably in 1922-23 form part of a careful survey of gainfully employed women in a New England factory town.

"Good health, an agreeable manner of meeting people, capacity for accurate statistical work, and ability to write good English," are the qualifications desired. Letters from professors who are familiar with the work of applicants forms the basis on which the appointing committee judges fitness. Written reports of the results of social or economic research will be welcomed by the committee. For the past five years the successful candidates have been graduates with some post-graduate training or experience, but consideration will be given to exceptionally gifted young women who will graduate this spring. The research fellows are expected to devote their entire time for ten months to the training given by the Department of Research.

Training is given in the making and criticism of schedules, in field work, in the construction and interpretation of statistical tables, and in the literary investigation; and two co-operative investigations will be made by the staff of the Research Department. These investigations will afford experience in all stages of the work required for modern co-operative investigations of social or economic problems.

The Department of Research have affiliation with colleges, whereby their fellows may obtain degrees on the research work or the thesis done in the Women's Educational and Industrial Union.

Applications for these fellowships must be filed before May 1st. Application blanks and information may be obtained from the department of research, Women's Educational and Industrial Union, 264 Boylston Street, Boston 17, Mass., U.S.A.

SECRETARY OF AIR BOARD TO ADDRESS SCI. MEN

What promises to be a very interesting lecture takes place this afternoon at 5 o'clock, in the Engineering Building, Room 33. Mr. P. A. Wilson, the Secretary of the Air Board, has very kindly consented to come from Ottawa, and he has promised to show some very interesting slides of forestry patrol work and surveying from the air.

Some particularly interesting work has been done in connection with the much-talked-of St. Lawrence Waterway project. The lecture should be of special interest to ex-airmen, many of whom no doubt know Mr. Wilson personally. Dr. Porter, of the Department of Mining, has also consented to run some motion picture films of aeroplane work. These films are especially fine ones, and together with the lecture will no doubt prove the attraction for a large attendance.

QUIPS

A black-bordered envelope was received by the Quips editor the other day. On opening it the perpetrator printed below was found. It speaks for itself:—

BEWARE! THE COLLEGE WIDOW.

(Or, There's One Born Every Day.) I met a junior young and strong; Yet sad of mien was he, And lingering about the hall, He looked forlorn to me.

"Oh, what can ail you, friend?" I cried, "What fate do you bemoan?" The junior shuddered visibly, And gave a hollow moan.

"I was a freshman here," he said, "My life was one long song, The days were always full of cheer, And nothing e'er went wrong."

And coming back to school this year, My life went on the same, Till one day up on Milton Street I met a smiling dame.

She passed me by with friendly smiles, I liked her winsome way, And swore that I would know that girl Before another day.

It wasn't hard; she lived nearby, I spoke to her that night; Was thrilled to hear her answer me, Her voice was a delight.

For many weeks I rushed that maid, She swore she loved but me, I made her life a merry whirl, Of dances, shows and tea.

The pleasure soon was ended, though, A Senior broke the spell, He said, "Your 'college widow' friend, Is doing pretty well."

She's got six students on the string, And keeps them going strong; Each thinks he's getting on quite well— She kids them all along!"

That girl had played me for a fool, I'd surely been an ass. (Ed. Note:— Hear, Hear!)

Exams are coming on in school; I'll never get a pass.

I've missed my lectures every day; My work is not half through, The month's allowance all is gone, And still my bills accrue.

So now I wander aimlessly, Long, empty hours I see, There's nothing left in this wide world For such a one as me."

I left the youth, his forlorn tale, Sad memories did recall, For of the six the maiden fooled, I was the first to fall.

KINK.

CONSTANT CONNIE.

(She answers any question you like to ask.)

For the benefit of any of the students who have questions of heart interest which they would like to solve, we have secured the services of the notable Constant Connie to take charge of this department. This innovation comes as a result of numerous questions which have been sent in:

Dear Connie,—I am a winsome lass of thirteen years, with nut brown eyes and short wavy hair. During the past three months I have been keeping company with a McGill student, but of late he has not come around. I first saw his picture in your paper, and at once fell in love with him, and at first he acted very nice to me, but now I am so lonely. Could you tell me what to do? I don't think he has deserted me altogether, as he swore we never would part. Do you think I am old enough to wear my skirts below my knees? Should I wear two hair nets or carry one in my pocket in case of emergency?

Dear Connie, You do not think that he has left me forever. Perhaps he has been taken away from me by one of the horrid girls at the girls school at McGill.

Yours imploringly, KATIE.

Dear Katie,—I would not worry about your friend. Many of them waver about this time of the month. I would wait until the first of the coming month to see if the impetus of a check from home would help any. 2.—I think you might lower your skirts a half inch with propriety. 3.—An unlimited store of hairnets is of use on occasions, but it is best to keep them out of danger until needed.

GOODLY ATTENDANCE AT STUDENTS' SOC. MEETING

then proceeded to deny and emphatically contradict the charge attributed given the various teams. Hamilton to a prominent local individual that McGill caters to specialized athletes. Some specialization occurs, but McGill at present is trying to turn out as many true sportsmen as possible. A hearty vote of thanks should be tendered the retiring president of the Council, Jack Copeland, for the exacting care and attention he has shown in reference to all student affairs during his term of office. The meeting applauded loudly, and greeted in the same way the vote of thanks to Lallan and Fraser for their excellent services.

Hamilton said he knew of only one "knock" which he had to mention. An "enormous amount of equipment is still out, the chief offender being the English Rugby Club. No man has the right to equip himself for the rest of his life at the expense of the student body, and the equipment must be returned."

Don Foss, the president-elect of the Athletic Association, took the chair during the consideration of athletic business. He promised his best efforts would be put forward to follow on in the excellent way blazed out by the previous president.

Flanagan introduced Matty Dineen, the new president of the Hockey Club. The latter thanked the meeting for the honour conferred on him in the elections, and called for the secretary's annual report. This consisted of a resume of the activities of the three college teams and the inter-faculty series, and Elderkin's recommendations concerning the inter-faculty series as an appendix.

The following men were elected officers of the Hockey Club by acclamation:

Vice-president, McGerrigle, nominated by Puddicombe and Flanagan.

Secretary Gordon Quackenbush, next years' manager, recommended for the position by Dineen, as a result of the desire to combine the two offices, to secure more satisfactory results.

Honorary president, Walter Stenson, nominated by Dineen and Hay. Faculty Representatives:—

Stephens, retiring secretary of the Athletic Association, reported that over 1,500 men had been engaged in competitive athletics, that remarkable interest had been shown in the inter-faculty series, that several international competitions had been held, of which the executive had most highly approved. Of the major sports, only the track squad had won against the plection.

The president of the Rugby Club being ill, Ambridge, the vice-president, gave his report, which consisted mainly of a statement of finances. Besides training table $1,200, travelling expenses $2,500, and equipment $2,500, there was $510 for medical supplies and attention, and $800 for "the gentlemen who cut the grass, and so on." The debt on the stadium was reduced $2,500, new stands and repairs cost $5,000, and $2,000 was paid in interest. The Rugby Club officers were elected by acclamation as follows:—

Honorary president—Mr. Walter Molson.

Honorary Treasurer—Dr. Sullivan.

Vice-president—Doug. McGregor.

Secretary—Hume, the manager, on the same principle which made the hockey club manager also secretary.

The faculty representatives are elected by the faculties.

Jack O'Brien, B.A., read the report of the secretary of the Track Club, complimenting Van Wagner, the coach, and reviewing the year's activities. McGill won the Intercollegiate meet, and also the exhibition relays held here last October. The school meet held last April attracted 500 entrants, and is to be repeated this year. The Intercollegiate meet will be here next fall.

Johnson, the president elect of the Track Club, thanked the men who had elected him. The following officers were elected for the club:

Honorary President—Dr. Tees.

Honorary Sec.-Treas.—Dr. McMillan.

Vice-president—Legg.

Sec.Treas.—To be the manager appointed by the Track Club.

It was proposed by Ambridge that a senior prep. school team be brought from Ontario next fall to play a prep. school here, at the expense of the McGill Rugby Club, with the object of interesting Ontario students in McGill as their university. The meeting approved of the idea, but decided to let the matter rest till the fall. It other colleges, this being its fourth successive victory. Of the minors, the basketball, tennis, polo, English rugby, indoor baseball and gymnastic teams had been successful. One hundred and twenty-two M.'s of various grades, and sixtyfour numerals had been awarded. Th extensive revision of the constitution was nearing completion, and the Governors had been approached on the subject of improving the dressing rooms at the Stadium, and had promised improved quarters. An application is now before the Athletic Association seeking recognition of the B. W. and F. as a club engaged in a major sport.

Sid Davis, the retiring president of the Union, took the chair, and called on Quackenbush, the retiring secretary, for the annual report. In brief, the pool rooms have been changed, and a superior rest room provided for the ladies. The president of the Students' Council now resides in the Union. Sectional clubs were severely criticised, due to the interest they were said to be detracting from Union affairs.

For the first time in three years, an informal dance had to be cancelled, due to the small number of tickets sold, and the Alma Mater deficit was $160. It was suggested that the duties of the Union House Committee be defined by constitution, and that a check room be fitted up in the basement.

Elderkin requested that better telephone facilities be provided at the Union, and was told that a pay 'phone and another public 'phone had been promised by the company as soon as the booths could be obtained. That occurred last fall, and no more word has been received.

The new Union president, Rochester, was introduced. He gave a logical statement of the need of increased patronage of the Union, pointing out that this had fallen off 40 per cent in the last year.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Sid Davis for his efficient management during the past year. The meeting closed at 12.10 p.m.

Old King Cole was a merry old soul, And a merry old soul was he; He called for his pipe, and he called for his bowl.

And he called for his Club so Glee. The Club it sang some very fine songs And some very fine songs sung they, And they cheered the boys with all their noise.

Oh, weren't they great, we'll say.
